“We operate in the world of big data and so in a customer facing business like ours it’s essential that people can understand customer behaviour.”

Steve Hulme – International Chief Finance Officer,
CapitalOne

“Even if you aren’t an expert, you need to know enough to understand if you should trust the information you’re looking at.”

“It’s really important for graduates to be equipped with these skills and it’s only going to get more important through time as the amount of data out there increase.”
